III. Protective Factors Activity –

- a. Gallery walk: What Protective Factors have you observed in your personal life, practice or professional life, or in your community? – discussion in small groups regarding this topic. This is an opportunity to practice talking about the protective factors with others and leading discussions in the community and at the April gathering. Groups wrote observations in different parts of the rooms and shared out things they observed in each category of personal life, practice or professional life, or community. We will continue to explore these for a while in these real life experiences so everyone is able to take the lead in conversations.

IV. April 24 CAPC Gathering

- a. Planning logistics: what is needed? - Eric gave an update from the planning meeting this morning.
 - ✓ Discussed food, set up, the resource fair, and the vendor sheet.
 - ✓ The amount of people will likely need to be limited but is still being discussed.
 - ✓ A few people have asked for information about the resource fair.
 - ✓ Table decorations were discussed as well as renting tablecloths with Child Abuse Prevention Month colors accented with logo colors for about 25 tables.
 - ✓ Pinwheels were an idea for centerpieces. Kalyee will check with the promotoras, as well as the numbers for the tables used last year.
 - ✓ When registration should go out was discussed. It will go out once we determine the number at the resource fair.
 - ✓ Cesar will try to get the room starting at 7:00 am or the day before.
 - ✓ Judi shared the proposed agenda and time allotted for each task.
 - ✓ Eric talked about the meeting with Beth, who went through what the community supporting presentation will look from about three people with the State. It will cover changes of the law and level of reporting that will be changing as far as most substantiated cases being general neglect. They will give some numbers at the state level as far as impact, followed by a debriefing for questions. Then we will present some community numbers and impacts. A local person will also be included with the presentation that will address concerns about how to keep children safe.
 - i. Outreach/Invitations: Review list of past invitees and attendees – Who is missing? In February meeting: Who is on your outreach list? - Cesar put together a list of the invitees to the last event. Page four has the list of people who actually attend. Everyone was invited to review the list and 1.) See if there are names of people we want to invite that are not on the list, and 2.) See if there are names of people whom you are willing to inform about the event and encourage attendance. We need to have each individual emails for those signing up and make that clear in the instructions. We will notify registrants that we need all individual names so we can create nametags for everyone. Each person will be instructed to register themselves and give us their email address, even if with the same agency. Last time we invited 150 and there were 103 who attended. We can make sure for registration numbers that one agency is overrepresented at the event. Since we don't always get full attendance, an idea is to invite over capacity knowing they won't all show.
